MISCELLANEOUS.

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street, ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.
 I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my vitality. I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1903, by Frank H. Sweet

Two of the trains had already pulled up to the company's wharf to the main line, and a third was sending out its last signaling whistle when a girl hurried down track 9 with a basket covered by a napkin, evidently containing a lunch.

Messenger 16 was swaying unsteadily at the open door of a car, and the girl went straight to him, her eyes bright, her cheeks flushed. But as she drew near she suddenly recoiled, a look of terror coming to her face.

"Ben," her white lips tried to say, but no sound came from them.

The man passed a hand across his brow weakly, holding to the car by the other. The girl went a step nearer.

"What does it mean?" Her voice quivered hoarsely. "Oh, Ben?"

Something of the agony in the cry seemed to penetrate the man's dulling brain, for a tremor went through him and he straightened suddenly, as though by a great effort. The dull eyes opened and shut heavily, and again the hand passed across the forehead as though to force some intelligence into the clogged brain. Then:

"Don't speak like that, girlie," an unrecognizable voice mumbled. "I'm not drunk. I never drank a drop in my life. You know I speak—true. It's a d-r-u-g," his voice drifting back again into the stupor.

The girl was beside him with a swift movement, the basket thrust into his car, her hands placed firmly upon his shoulders, her eyes closed and gazing straight into his, lovingly, compellingly.

"Ben," the voice forcing itself into clearness and steadiness. "Look at me now, hard. What is it? Think?"

The man made a supreme effort. "It was messenger 12—Timson, you know."

She knew. She had refused Timson's love.

"He offered me a drink of water, and I took it. Then he crossed to track 3 and jumped on board his train. It was the one that just pulled out."

"But what did he do for?"

"Don't you understand, Della?" a sharp agony quivering in the voice. "This trip was to furnish the money for our wedding. Timson knew it. He planned it just before my train starts, so I will lose the trip. There is no time to find a substitute. My train will go without me, and the company will be angry and discharge me for drunkenness, and—"

and—his eyes again becoming dull and his form wavering more heavily—"and I'm losing myself. I can't see you. Quick, girlie, find the messenger and tell him it isn't drink, A—"

A discharged messenger cannot get work anywhere.

He lurched forward and would have fallen, but she caught him in her strong, supple arms.

A quick glance both ways showed no one was in sight. The fruit train on track 5 was just leaving the wharf, and 6 was sounding its last warning call. Half carrying and half leading him, she hurried messenger 16 to the nearest entrance, only a few yards away.

Several days were standing about waiting for a job. She motioned impudently to the owner of the nearest.

"Listen, Ben," she said slowly, putting her lips close to the ears of the now almost insensible man in an effort to make him hear and comprehend. "I am going to send you home. You mustn't worry a bit. I will fix it all right." He was holding his train papers tightly, and she uncupped them gently from his fingers. Then as the drayman came forward: "Take this man to his home at once, 12 Rue Citronelle. Here is a dollar."

Inside, she again glanced sharply around. A man was running in her direction, heading toward the rear of the train. She recognized him as a friend of Ben's.

"Hello, Miss Della!" he called. "Come to see Ben off again, have you? He's a lucky dog. But you must excuse my hurry. This train pulls out in three minutes, and I must reach my section."

Della could hear her heart thumping in its anxiety.

"Your section is in the rear, I suppose?" she questioned, with assumed carelessness.

"Yes"—over his shoulder—"the eighteen rear cars. I'm messenger 23. Ben has the forward twenty cars. I switch off at Memphis for Jefferson City and Ben goes on to Columbus."

As he hurried away Della's face cleared. She had learned all she wanted to know. Placing her hands upon the floor of the car she gave a light spring and was within, sliding the door quickly behind her. A few moments later her own bell rang, and then the car began to move forward.

She had never been on a train before, never been out of New Orleans, but her father had been a messenger, and Ben had many times told her the details of his trip. She must manipulate the ventilators of her twenty cars so as to have the best just right to bring the bananas to prime, marketable condition when she reached her destination. A few degrees too much either way might mean the loss of a good many thousand dollars to the company.

It was a hard trip, for the outside thermometer rose from 31 degrees to 70 degrees in six hours, and the next morning was back again to 31 degrees and falling. It meant a constant shifting of the ventilators, with an impossibility of keeping the car thermometer from fluctuating uneasily. Zero weather would have been infinitely preferable, for then the ventilators could have remained closed and the fruit would generate enough heat of its own. That night and the next day Della did not trust herself to sit down once, for fear she might get drowsy and momentarily relax her vigilance. Too much depended upon obtaining the best results just now.

She was careful to keep herself out of sight, and this she was able to do the more readily on account of the fruit train making few stops. At Memphis the rear section was switched off to connect with a train which had been attached to a train which had just pulled in from Galveston, the engine returning to New Orleans with a lot of empty cars.

A few hours later, at a watering stop, the new conductor caught sight of her as he was hurrying along the train. She was just sliding the door, but too late.

"Hello," he cried, pausing; "a woman—tramp!"

Della slid back the door.

"No, sir," she answered quietly, holding up the papers she had taken from Ben. "I am in charge of this section. I haven't had a chance to see you before."

The conductor gave a long whistle which ended in an apologetic cough. But his face lengthened visibly.

"What's the company thinking of?" he ejaculated hotly. "Next we know girls will be put in as conductors and brakemen and engineers." And he hurried away, still choking resentfully.

Seven days later Della entered the company's office at New Orleans. The manager himself happened to be in, and he seemed to recognize her by the papers she carried in her hand. He came forward quickly. But at that moment a figure which had been loitering about the street door—white, anxious faced man, who had been peering into the office most of the time for the last eight days—also saw her and rushed in. She turned to him first.

"How are you, Ben?" she asked eagerly. "All right?"

"Yes, yes! But you? What have you been up to, girlie? The office has been full of talk."

The manager was beside them now. "Is this Miss Della?" he inquired.

"Yes, sir. Here are the receipts your commission agents gave me. They said the fruit was in prime condition."

The manager glanced over the papers hurriedly.

"Yes, yes; they're all right," he said. "But we knew that before. Our agents wired us that the fruit was in the very best condition—as good as they had ever received. I—hardly know what to do about this. It's a most untoward thing, and should receive our severest censure, and yet you did as well as our very best messenger—better almost. I suppose we shall have to pass it over. But such a thing must never happen again. No," as her gaze went inquiringly toward Ben, "we have not discharged him. He may go on the next trip. And you—well, it was a most untoward thing, but I suppose you did the best you could under such short notice. You may stop at the cashier's window for your money, and—yes, there's a little recognition for you there also. You saved us from a possible great loss. But remember the recognition is accompanied by our most severe censure."

His Was Better.

Robert S. Hawkes, always known as "the vicar of Morvenstone," and a poet of 50 man ability, was brought up by his grandfather, a very learned and religious man. In the church where this old gentleman preached the evening service always closed with the hymn, "Lord, Dismiss Us With Thy Blessing," which was composed by Dr. Hawkes himself. His grandson, who did not know the authorship of the hymn, came to the doctor one day with a paper in his hand, saying: "Grandfather, I don't altogether like that hymn 'Lord, Dismiss Us With Thy Blessing.' I think it might be improved in meter and language and that it would be better if it were somewhat longer."

"Oh, indeed?" said Dr. Hawkes, reddening. "And pray, Robert, what improvements concerning themselves to your precocious wisdom?"

"This is my improved version," said Robert. And he read aloud a very creditable hymn, after which he repeated the old version, saying innocently, "This one is crude and flat, don't you think so, grandfather?"

"Crude and flat, sir! Young puppy, it is mine! I wrote that hymn!"

"Oh, I beg your pardon, grandfather! I didn't know that. It's a very nice hymn indeed, but," as he went out of the door, "mine is better!"

A Garbled Message.

At the last moment Mr. Gayley found he could not attend the garden party at Miss Penton's house, and it was, of course, imperative that he should send his regrets, so he summoned Michael, the family valet.

"Tell Miss Bessie that I am very sorry, but business will prevent me coming," he said.

"Yes, sir," said Michael.

"And—stay a moment," said Gayley. "Could you remember a line of poetry?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Well, tell her, 'Though lost to sight, to memory dear.'"

Half an hour later Michael was delivering his message to Miss Penton. "The master said it's sorry he is can't be with ye," said Michael, "and—though he's lost his sight, his memory's clear. And may I be forgiven for the untruth I'm tellin' ye!"—London Globe.

BE ACCURATE.

One of the Best Notices For a Young Man Entering Business.

The head of one of the largest dry goods commission houses in this city was asked the other day how it happened that his partner, upon whom the principal responsibility of the business rests, came to attain that position while not yet thirty years of age.

"Purely and simply on his own merits," he replied. "He came into my office one morning some ten or twelve years ago and told me that he had just finished school and was looking for a position. I happened to have an office boy and started him in at $5 a week. His rise from that position to the one that he now occupies was steady and rapid and was due entirely to the fact that after having received an order or instructions he could be relied upon to carry them out, and do it correctly too. He never started off on anything 'half cocked,' so to speak. He was not afraid to ask questions and thus get his instructions straight before under-taking the work in hand. In fact, I might say that he owes everything to the fact that he was always accurate in all that he did. You may think that I am preaching a sort of sermon, but if young men entering business positions, whether high or low, would take for their motto the two words, 'Be accurate,' and would live up to it there need be no fear of the ultimate outcome of their undertakings."—New York Commercial.

A VERSATILE WOMAN.

Some of the Things For Which Phoebe Bown Was Famed.

Phoebe Bown died something over half a century ago, aged eighty. This extraordinary woman, who lived with her mother in a cottage nearly opposite the High Tor, at Matlock Bath, England, could walk nearly forty miles a day when young, could lift a hundred-weight in each hand and carry fourteen stone. She undertook any kind of manual labor, as holding the plow, driving the team, thrashing wheat with the flail and thatching the stacks. Her chief avocation was breaking horses at a gallop a week. She always rode without saddles and was considered the best judge of horses and cows in the peak.

But Phoebe had also a liking for sport and for art. She was a good shot and carried her gun on her shoulder. She was fond of Milton, Pope and Shakespeare and performed on several instruments, including the flute, violin and harpsichord, and played the bass violin in Matlock church. She was a carpenter, mason and smith and mainly by her own hand labor built another room to the cottage for the reception of a harpsichord which a lady presented to her. At her own request a local clergyman wrote her epitaph, and here it is:

Here lies romantic Phoebe, Half Gypsy, half Horse; A maid of marvellous condition, A jockey, cowherd and musician.

Muscles That Shut Out Cold.

"The muscles of the skin need training to educate them to contract vigorously on the slightest cold," says a medical writer. "To shut the blood out of the skin so quickly that the precious body heat will not be lost. You notice that when the skin is cold there is a 'goose skin' appearance. This is due to the contraction of the little muscles of the skin. The contraction of the muscles compresses the external blood vessels and drives away the blood from the surface, hardening and thickening the skin, which thereby becomes a better nonconductor. Thus the body temperature is maintained."

"It is because of the constant exposure to cold that the Indian's body is 'all face.' The skin of his whole body, not only that of the face, has learned to take care of itself."

A Tarpon Scarecrow.

Times and places there are where the tarpon have been so numerous and so free in their antics as to be a pest to the small fishermen, who in a certain bay once harpooned a lordly fish, lashed him to a keg and pointed him to the open sea.

Drawing the floating barrel, he went, splashing terror to his kindred, an aquatic scarecrow. And as the militant surface, ferried by a leaping twelve stone fish, went marching down the bay all tarpon, great and small, took warning that they must keep their performances within the bounds of decency.—Country Life in America.

Using a Coat Hanger.

Many years of hard work on the farm had made the old man round shouldered, and his coat fitted badly. His son in the city sent him a coat stretcher on which to hang the coat at night. On his next visit to the farm the young man asked how the coat stretcher worked. His father looked a little embarrassed and then confessed.

"I can't stand it on," said he. "It was real good of you to send it. Your mother fastened it to my coat with tape, but I wasn't comfortable in it, and I had to take it off."

A Dream.

"I found I had saved up a thousand dollars without pinching myself."

"Without pinching yourself?"

"Without pinching myself."

"Then how did you know you were awake?"—Puck.

How Man Amuses Himself.

MAN'S life is made up of work and play. There is the business of life and the amusements of life. Both are essential to existence. We must work to play and we must play to work. One cannot devote all his time to the business of life. He must have recreation both physical and mental. The mental worker generally needs and takes physical amusements while the physical worker needs and takes mental amusements. Because of the needs of the human race for amusements, the maintaining and promotion of them has become the source of great revenues. Man of all ages has had his amusements. Work has always been interspersed with play. The Greeks and the Romans had their games and athletics just as we have today. This kind of amusement is both of mental and physical benefit. A good athlete must train his good judgment as well as his muscles, so physical and mental process are combined.

The drama has also through many ages been the source of much amusement to men. Men are amused by the drama because it plays on their emotions and feelings. They may witness the portrayal of life in all its varying phases on the stage, and in its semblance to reality find pleasure. So we applaud the actor or actress who is clever enough to be so real a tyrant or lover as to inspire our hatred or sympathy.

Some travel for amusement and are amused in that their minds are diverted from the business of life and that they are entertained by new sights and new types. Travel is a great source of amusement and of much benefit to the fagged out mind, but it is too often, yet necessarily, made the business of life instead of one of life's pleasures.

Music amuses because it suggests emotions and creates varying atmospheres according to its nature. Martial music fills the heart full of patriotism and creates a new spirit of enthusiasm no matter how tired the weary soldier. Sacred music fills the heart full of divine ardor and reverence. Ragtime imbues one with the spirit of frolic and grotesque fancy. Some are amused by the latter, which the more classic music would bore. So demand creates the different kinds of musical entertainment.

Cards, checkers and chess amuse many because they divert the mind and chance and competition enter into the play. Gambling is one of the principal amusements of life and though too often its results are dire, its excitement allures and it will ever tempt and have its devotees.

If one lives to eat and drink, even these commonplace diversions, or one might say necessities, become a source of amusement. The amusement one gets out of eating and drinking is the good fellowship which goes with it. There is no joy in eating or drinking alone but where one has jovial comrades, there is pleasure to be gleaned in sociability and amusement to be derived from the flow of wit and repartee which generally is a part of the convivial feast.

Man is above all a social animal and as a rule he gets life's keenest enjoyment through association with his fellows whether in business or pleasure.

On The Hog.

A pig got educated once
Though formerly he had been a dunce.
Into his brain this knowledge poured
The pen is mightier than the sword.

Now Mr. Pig had always got
His living through the pen,
And so resolved let come what might
He'd never work again.

But one fine day a butcher came
With sword all sharp and keen;
The pen was mightier than the sword
So Pig cared not a bean.

But some how pens ain't all alike
The butcher laughed and grinned,
To hear that porker holler out
This time I've got you skinned.

This foolish Pig, alas too bad,
His logic slipped a cog,
As any one can readily see
This joke is on the hog.

It is fitting that the anniversary of great men should be celebrated, particularly those great souls who have made the world better for their having lived.

But recently Scotchmen celebrated the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, the poet so dear to the heart of every Scot and every true lover of poetry. Robert Burns was the poet of a simple life and in its simplicity lies the chief charm of his verse. He was a patriot and patriotic ardor and pride fill all his lines. He was above all a keen observer of the ways of men, and his poetry reflects the influence, by which he was surrounded.

There have been greater poets than Robert Burns, poets who have appealed more to the aesthetic sense, but none have ever touched the heart as he has done in such lines as these:

"From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur springs,
That makes her loved at home, revered abroad;
Princes and Lords are but the breath of Kings,
An honest man's the noblest work of God;
And certes, in fair virtue's heavenly road,
The cottage leaves the palace far behind;
What is a lordling's pomp, a cumbrous load,
Disguising oft the wretch of human kind,
Studied in arts of hell, in wickedness refined."

CALENDAR DAY IN SUPERIOR COURT

Judges Emmet Seawell and Albert G. Burnett disposed of the following business in their respective departments of the Superior Court last Monday:

In Department 1, Judge Seawell presiding, Joseph Murry was appointed administrator on the estate of Ruth Murry in a bond of $125.

The petition in the estate of J. S. Keller was dropped from the calendar.

The will of the late George Connors was admitted to probate, Charles F. Connors being named executor without bonds.

A sale of personal property of the estate of Thomas Skelton Glaister was confirmed.

The final account of the estate of Joseph P. Platt was settled and allowed.

The petition to lease the Goatley ranch was granted and a sale of personal property in the estate of Armsted Goatley was approved.

These probate matters were continued: Estate of Paul Robin to February 6; estate of Leonard Schwan to February 13.

In Department 11, Judge Burnett presiding, the report of the commissioners partitioning the property of the estate of Catherine Slattery was confirmed and the decree of distribution was allowed.

The demurrer was overruled and ten days allowed to answer in the action of the Petaluma & Santa Rosa railroad against the C. N. W. R'y.

The divorce suit of Edna Fallon against J. F. Fallon was submitted. The suit of Thomas vs. Salmon creek Lodge, I. O. O. F., was set for trial for February 14.

These matters were continued: Harwood vs. Haebl, Tyler vs. Smith, Haile vs. Grace, to February 6; Meyerhult vs. Paxton, et al, to February 13 for settlement of the will of exceptions.

Well Known Young Man Takes a Bride.

Erhard E. Steiger, well known throughout this valley where he has spent his boyhood days, took out a marriage license to wed in San Francisco on Saturday last.

The lady of his choice is a resident of San Francisco, who was Miss Alice J. Leahy.

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

Send for free sample.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

THE SUMMER SEASON

WILL SOON BE HERE.

This is to remind those who did not receive Summer Visitors last year to consider the matter now, and arrange to do so this season.

The results to those on this road who did so last year were, on the whole, very satisfactory.

We would like, also, for those who have nice camping locations to send in full particulars, terms, etc.

If you will kindly forward this matter in accord with the blank below, we shall be pleased to advertise it in our "Vacation 1905." It is necessary for us to receive the information not later than February 15th.

As signatures are not always easily read, we shall thank you if you will be very careful in writing same.

Index-Tribune.

SONOMA, FEB. 4, 1905.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

There's twice as much wear in LEVI STRAUSS & CO'S PATENT RIVETED CLOTHS as in any other brand.

BRIEF MENTION

Ladies' wool waists at G. H. Hotz's.

A dramatic club is being organized here.

Lumber at Camm & Hedges, Petaluma.

Daily Call and Index-Tribune $9 per year.

Ladies' lambs wool sweaters at G. H. Hotz's.

Evening Post and Index Tribune $7 per year.

Capt. Hautto had to have his finger amputated.

Lumber of all kinds at Camm & Hedges, Petaluma.

Sheriff Frank Grace took J. Solanti to Folsom prison on Saturday.

The Statens are beginning to move into their new home on Broadway.

Daily Evening Bulletin, Sunday Morning Bulletin and Index-Tribune all for a year for $7.80.

Camm & Hedges, Petaluma, sell all kinds of lumber, laths, mouldings and mill work.

New Milch Cow and Pigs for sale. Apply on the ranch, or address Mrs. M. H. Morton, Sonoma, Cal.

Guy Weems repairs bicycles, sewing machines and all kinds of machinery. First-class mechanic. Prices reasonable, and work attended to promptly. Leave orders Chapman's store.

Even better place to stop $7 per week than at the Langston. Corner Ellis and Mason. It is six stories high, fire-proof, convenient to all attractions, and offers all advantages of superior hotel service at small cost. The rooms are large, clean and well ventilated, and the management courteous, polite and hospitable. Write for booklet and rates.

The last rails of the Napa and San Francisco Railroad are being laid into Napa today. The work has been pushed rapidly through and trains will shortly be running over the branch from the drawbridge to Napa. The traveling distance between Napa and San Francisco will be materially shortened and much of the Napa traffic will go via Tiburon after the new road is completed.

Personal Mention.

Miss May Winkle of San Francisco has been visiting Sonoma relatives.

Miss Winkle celebrated her birthday one day this week with a coffee party.

James F. Tate and bride have been spending their honeymoon in San Luis Obispo.

Mrs. King and little child are the guests of Mrs. King's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wadsworth.

Mrs. M. C. Aldrich and Miss Bernice Aldrich have been guests at "Stafford Grange" this week.

Miss Celeste Granice leaves tomorrow for Los Angeles via the Santa Fe and will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker during her sojourn in Southern California.

Mrs. Robt. Hill leaves San Francisco for Los Angeles Monday via the Coast Route, and will be a guest at the Hotel Van Nuys during the Federation of Women's Club Convention next week.

An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula as ugly as ever since time immemorial. It causes blemishes in the neck, distorts the skin, inflames the mucous membranes, weakens the muscles, weakens the system, reduces the power of the brain, and develops into consumption.

It appeared on the left side of the neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and a running sore. I went into a sanitarium, and when I had taken my medicine, and when I had taken any trouble of the kind since, it did not return.

Next day's Sarsaparilla and Pills of it, radically and permanently, as they have rid thousands.

RAILWAY FRANCHISE GOES TO SCHOCKEN.

Overbids Competitor at Trustees Meeting—Other Matters Transacted by the Board.

There was much business transacted at the February meeting of the Trustees on Wednesday night, the most important of which was the opening of bids for the electric railway franchise and the subsequent awarding of the same to S. Schocken and Oscar T. Weber for $110.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been approved the following claims were allowed:

H. Pooler, repairing fire hose, etc.	$2.50
Sonoma Valley Co., street lights	34.44
Fred. Fouts, hauling gravel	73.50
J. G. Marcy, merchandise	3.00
J. H. Johnson, labor	15.00
A. Caminata, labor	1.50
W. Green, lumber	35.35
D. Allamano, curbing	6.00
D. Valente, cleaning jail	22.50
L. E. Hansen, sewer pipe	26.00
J. B. Small, salary, etc.	26.00
Total	$246.34

A communication was received from a number of Spain street property owners asking that a fire hydrant, which had formerly been located on that street, be replaced.

The Chief of the Fire Department was instructed to have the same attended to.

An invitation was received from the fire department inviting the City Council to be present at the annual banquet of the fire ladders to be given at the Garibaldi Hotel on February 8th.

The invitation was framed in such high flown words of esteem by the writer, Jim Small, that the City Fathers could not accept it quick enough. They will attend the banquet in a body and if they do what the invitation credits them with "will add to the lustre and pomp of the occasion."

A communication was read from the City Attorney stating that funds could be secured for the new city hall by levying a special tax which must be limited to 50c in any one year and for which purpose an election is necessary and a two-thirds vote must be had to carry it.

The contract for street lights was renewed for another month.

It was decided to allow the Woman's Club to go ahead with the erection of the fountain, provided it was not put on any of the walks of the Plaza. Trustee Poppe believed that the fountain should not be allowed to go up as yet, but Trustee Hotz, McDowell and Britenbach favoring it, the Clerk was instructed to tell the ladies to go ahead with the work in conjunction with the plaza committee of the Trustees.

Bids for the electric railway franchise were then opened. O. E. Baldwin of San Francisco proved to have in a bid of $50 and Schocken and Weber one for $110. Schocken then raised the bid to $60.

His competitor bid $75.

"I will give $90," said Schocken.

"I will give $100," replied Baldwin.

"I'll make it $110," declared Schocken.

Things looked exciting at this point in the proceedings, but Baldwin did not bid over the $110 and the franchise was knocked down to Schocken and Weber.

Baldwin maintained that the Board could not finally award the franchise and wanted to go on record as raising that point. He later asked for fifteen minutes time in order to consider giving a higher price, but by this time the bids had been declared closed and sold.

The Trustees were unanimous in awarding the franchise to Schocken and Weber.

The ordinance in connection with the franchise was read twice. It is iron-clad in many respects and provides for the building of the road within four months after the awarding of the franchise.

Pleasant Pastime.

The card party at Mrs. Enos' last Friday night, was attended by all the members of the club and was greatly enjoyed. Miss Annie Pemberton was, for a second time, the lucky prize winner and captured the pretty hand bag, which was the lady's prize. Mr. Coleman took the gentleman's prize, an ink stand. After the winners had been declared and the prizes awarded dainty refreshments were served.

The Morning Mail Will Be Later.

The morning mail will not get here as early as hitherto owing to a change in the time of the Southern Pacific Company's morning train, which now arrives later. The mail will not be distributed until about 11:30 P. M.

Prominent Man Has Been Ill.

C. Aguilon, the well-known wine man and a highly respected old resident of this place, has been very ill the past week.

His condition was such that on Sunday Dr. Carl Walliser was summoned to his bedside. The many friends of the family wish Mr. Aguilon a speedy recovery.

Yesterday morning Mr. Aguilon accompanied by his daughter and Dr. Walliser went to the French Hospital in San Francisco for treatment.

EL VERANO. By Happy Hooligan.

Felice Clerici had a pet dog poisoned one day this week.

Phil Rossi and son Albert visited friends in Melitta Sunday.

John Lounibos went to San Francisco on business Wednesday.

Miss Emily Kearney is visiting friends in Oakland this week.

J. T. Peters, the San Francisco real estate agent, was in town Sunday.

Blair Hart, the well known Supervisor, passed through town Monday.

Lester Trudgen of Sonoma boarded the S. P. train for Martinez Monday.

H. H. Granice and L. Quartaroli boarded the train here for Santa Rosa Tuesday.

Thos. H. Baines, our real estate man, was in Santa Rosa on business Monday.

A. W. Weaver and Theo. Skillman returned home from San Francisco Saturday evening.

Mrs. L. D. Batchelor went to San Francisco Monday morning returning home the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Riser were Wednesday morning passengers on the south bound S. P. train.

Robert Poppe of Sonoma was a passenger on the S. P. train Monday en route to Santa Rosa.

J. Albert Dutil, one of our rising young sports, has accepted a position at the French Bakery in Sonoma.

L. Landucci, who conducted a large livery stable at this place last season, has his place up for sale, and will not return here next season.

Tony Serres, the popular young bartender at the Bellevue Hotel, has leased the saloon of Frank Weaver in this place and will soon open up for business.

Harry Baines and Myron Raycroft spent last Saturday in the marshes at Embarcadero. They report few ducks and succeeded in bagging but one.

Hugh Chance has resigned his position as a painter at the Feeble Minded Home and has gone to San Francisco to accept a better job at the California Paint Works.

Billy Chase of Sonoma, was in town Tuesday. "Hooligan" overheard Billy asking a friend if the summer fairies had made their appearance here yet. You're a little ahead of time, Billy. It is winter in El Verano now.

Ira B. Harvey of this place had a narrow escape from being hurt last Sunday. He was engaged in hauling a load of wood from Agua Caliente to this place when his team got stuck in a mud hole and horses and wagon were brought to a standstill. Mr. Harvey thereupon got off the wagon seat and endeavored to assist the team in getting out of the rut by pushing on one of the forward wheels. The wagon suddenly started and Harvey was thrown to the ground, one of the wheels passing over his legs, severely injuring them, but fortunately no bones were broken.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Flowers Will Bloom in the Springtime.

A bevy of enthusiastic ladies of the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club had a little planting day in the Plaza last Saturday afternoon and a large number of geraniums, roses and chrysanthemums were set out.

One of the club members alone planted sixty choice geraniums of various colors. The geraniums will make a pretty showing in no time and we may expect that flowers will bloom in the Plaza ere spring time is over.

GLEN ELLEN By Aurora.

Prof. Schieck visited Santa Rosa Monday.

Mr. Frank Herd transacted business in Windsor and Santa Rosa Monday.

Mr. Emmet Smith of Suisun visited his mother, Mrs. Delmar of this place, last Sunday.

SUES HER HUSBAND FOR A DIVORCE.

Minnie B. Tenny Files Complaint Charging Her Husband John M. Tenny With Cruelty.

Minnie B. Tenny, through her attorney Frank Sprague, has sued her husband, John M. Tenny, for divorce alleging cruelty, but in the complaint are also many other sensational allegations. The divorce is the outcome of trouble between Tenny and his wife, when the latter refused to remain under her husband's roof, because of another woman who came from the east to live in the Tenny household. Her presence was disagreeable to the wife, although the husband assured her that the woman, who is a widow, was an old-time friend of his and would assist with the household duties.

Mrs. Tenny finally informed her husband that if their visitor did not leave the house that she would. There was a council of war, which ended with Tenny driving his wife, bag and baggage to the train and the departure of the latter for Oakland.

The Tennys came here several years ago and bought the Walliser place on Broadway.

They have several children and a restraining order has been issued by the court to prevent the defendant from disposing of his property pending the settlement of the case.

Dead Body of Infant Found in a Petaluma Alley.

A great sensation was created in Petaluma on Thursday by the discovery of the dead body of an infant girl baby in the alley in the rear of the First Baptist Church of that city.

A number of people declare that they heard cries on Wednesday night coming from the locality where the body of the child was found, and back of the mystery may be an awful crime committed in the dark and stormy night. Officers are investigating the mystery.

Rainfall Greatly Exceeds Last Year's.

The rainfall this season greatly exceeds the total for the same time last year ending at 7 A. M. Feb. 2, 1905. Robt. Hall, voluntary observer, records 20.65 inches as against 11.57 inches last year at the same time.

In the twenty-four hours preceding Feb. 2d 1.81 inches of rain fell.

Local prophets declare that it will clear up today and continue so next week. During January the total precipitation was 5.21 inches with .36 as the greatest precipitation in twenty-four hours. February came in like a lion and is thus far a record breaker.

A NEW ENTERPRISE FOR SONOMA

Ice Plant and Bottling Works May Be Started by Grace Bros.

Jos. P. Grace of the well known firm of Grace Bros., Santa Rosa, was in town on Thursday on business connected with the establishment of a new enterprise in Sonoma.

Mr. Grace is looking around with the end in view of securing a location for an ice plant and bottling works.

He is after a site adjacent to the California Northwestern depot and hopes to start the business up before the summer trade begins to be lively.

Other parties are looking around here in anticipation of starting a brewery, so we may shortly expect a boom in the business line.

Sunset Telephone Co. and Other Systems

The following communication speaks for itself:

L. S. Simmons, agent, Sonoma:—

Dear Sir:

Representations are being made to subscribers in your territory that telephone lines foreign to our system will receive local and long distance switches through our system. I wish to say that this is not the case, and never will be.

I would like to have you respectfully call our subscribers attention to that clause in their contract, wherein they agree to forfeit our instruments should any others be installed on their premises. The instruments we use are not owned by us, and we rent them subject to certain conditions.

We are, therefore, not empowered to concede any one the privilege of being advertised by people outside of our concern. In other words, our local system is not to be confounded as being connected, with any outside or local telephone system.

TOBACCO SECRETS.

Turkish and Virginia Leaves Are Varieties of the Same Plant.
How many people even among the most confirmed smokers know what is the difference between Turkish and Virginia tobaccos?

The smoker, of course, can tell you which is which at the first whiff, but if you ask him what the original distinction is between the two he will tell you that one comes from Turkey and the other from the States.

He is wrong. You could grow Turkish and Virginia tobaccos in the same field, for they are merely two different varieties of the same plant. Turkish is the leaf of Nicotiana rustica, while Virginia is Nicotiana glauca. Of course the two are often blended by tobaccoists.

Again, what constitutes the difference between "strong" and "mild" tobaccos? It is simple enough. The strong product is so manufactured that it burns slowly, the result being that the contained nicotine is distilled in an unaltered state. Mild tobaccos are those which burn well, and thus their contained nicotine is consumed or decomposed, with the result that a less narcotic smoke is formed.

We often hear cheap cigars spoken of as "cabbage leaves," and doubtless many people believe that these are actually adulterated with other substances than tobacco. Often in such a weed the outside wrapper is noticed to be patched with pale green, and this fact is held proof of the cabbage leaf libel. The piece of greenish leaf is real tobacco which has been plucked unripe or not properly cured. It is only to be found in thin, poor leaf.—London Express.

USE OF FRENCH WORDS.

A Practice That Does Not Help the English Language.

Why do people persist in using French words when there are good old English words to serve the purpose? It is a habit that is growing daily. For instance, at dinner people give you "menu" instead of "bill of fare," though the items are such English dishes as boiled cod, roast beef and apple tart. One is accommodated with a serviette instead of a napkin, an English word, but originally of French origin, as is the Scotch word napery, used for household linen. When you enter a shop you are served with corsets instead of stays, costumes by a dressmaker. "Blouses" take the place of shirts or waists, and hose are offered for stockings. The former word is, however, English. At the theater we have programmes instead of playbills and matinees in place of afternoon performances. Toques are adjusted with as much ease as hats in a restaurant as cheerfully as in a dining room. There are, of course, untranslatable words which must be used, but our good old English language is rapidly becoming a hotchpotch of foreign words, while telegraphy is doing its best to out all the crisp and racy Saxon speech. Whenever possible let us determine to use an English word instead of a French word, both in literature and conversation.—London Graphic.

Fines For Church Shirkers.

After being dormant for some years the act (3 Jas. I. c. 4, 1606) which provided that any person absenting himself from his church on a Sunday without sufficient excuse should be fined twopence for each absence and imprisoned in default of distress on his goods until the fine was paid was revived in 1838. A report of the inspectors of prisons contains a list of eleven persons in Lancashire fined and imprisoned under the act between Feb. 12, 1839, and May 10, 1840. In one case a laborer was in prison for ten weeks (until released by order of the home secretary) after being convicted in a penalty of 1 shilling, with 14 shillings costs, for having been absent from church a single Sunday. This act was repealed, so far as regards Roman Catholics, in 1844, and wholly in 1846.—London Chronicle.

What We Get.

If I am asked the question, "Do we get our deserts?" I will boldly answer, "No, we don't, and we never shall, speaking of humanity as a whole and taking account of the preponderating multitudes to whom life is only another word for misery." But if I am asked, "Do we get what is best for us?" I say, "Yes, always and everywhere, taking our lives through and through, and having account not merely for our material, but also for our spiritual welfare."—Hall Caine.

Yankee Assurance.

Irritated Frenchman (to American who has mistaken him for a waiter)—Sir, you have gr-r-r-rossly insulted me! There is my card! My seconds will wait upon you, sir—American—Never mind your seconds, Frenchy. You can wait on me just as well. Pass me the Worcestershire sauce, and be quick about it!

Had His Own Doubts.

"Say, ma," asked little Willie after he had been in conjunction with the paternal slipper, "did anybody besides pa ever ask you to be his wife?"
"Oh, yes; I had lots of proposals before your father came along."
"Well, do you think you gained anything by waiting?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Fine Drawn.

"You will observe that this is a very fine point."
"It ought to be. You've strained it enough."—Cleveland Leader.

I will chide no brother in the world but myself, against whom I know most faults.—Shakespeare.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

It is well to take time in thinking before making accusations.

A woman who can use her eyes with effect is a dangerous rival.

Women take fright easily over a lover's compliments to another of the fair sex.

There is a species of treason in carrying water on both shoulders in a love affair.

In every man there is a disposition to do the grand where women are concerned.

It hurts a woman's pride to have another woman share with her a man's attention.

When one man sneers at another it is fair to presume jealousy is at the bottom of it.

When a man regards himself as irresistible it is time to do some quiet thinking and self-abnegation.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Correggio and His Life.

Little is known of Correggio, which would argue that he was of a retiring disposition. He was born in the little town of Correggio, twenty-four miles from Parma. In the latter city he was educated, but in his seventeenth year an outbreak of the plague drove his family to Mantua. By 1514 he was back in Parma. For some years he worked here and painted many famous pictures. It may have been because of grief over the death of his young wife, but at the age of thirty-six, indifferent to fame and fortune, he retired to the little town where he was born. All that is known regarding his death is the date, March 5, 1534.—Charles H. Caffin in St. Nicholas.

Play Games.

Games help to form character to a wonderful extent, and I do not know any means by which you can so quickly arrive at an estimate of human character, of individuality, of personality, as you can by watching people at games or engaged in any sport that calls for endurance, patience, celerity of mind and body. The school with a good record for games is almost always in the front rank of scholarship.—Dr. Warre.

Former Experience Painful.

The young woman had just said no. "Have you ever been rejected before?" Mr. Huddleston? she asked sympathizingly and almost tenderly.
"Once," he said, a spasm of pain contorting his features at the recollection, "by a life insurance company. I tell you it hurt—that time."—Chicago Tribune.

Help Others.

Help others and bless yourself. Drive the cloud from the brow of a friend in distress, and you open the windows for an effulgence of light upon your own heart.—Detroit Free Press.

His Experience.

His Friend—Money talks. The Promoter—Yes, but sometimes it's mighty hard to get it to listen.—New York Press.

To tell a man with a cold in his head that colds always attack the weakest spot is adding insult to injury.

Startling but True.

People the world over were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theater in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives, over three times the number of over 3,000 people died of pneumonia in Chicago during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice. Very few of these cases of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many have had every reason to fear pneumonia have ward off by the prompt use of this sort of remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter, Laura, of a severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was threatened with pneumonia. W. D. Wirtz, Logan, New York. Sold by Shoults & Co."

A Candid Critic.

Author—Is it true that you say my latest is the worst book I ever wrote? Critical Acquaintance—Nonsense, my dear fellow. What I said was that it was the worst book anybody ever wrote; not you in particular.

A Narcotic.

Teacher—Give me a familiar instance of a narcotic. (Pupil hesitates.) Teacher—What does your father smoke in his pipe? Pupil—Mother says it smells like hayseed, but I guess it's leather.

Croup.

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup (the child will cry for it), and at the first sign of a croupy cough apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat. Mrs. A. Villet, New Castle, Colo., writes, March 19, 1901: "I think Ballard's Horehound Syrup, a wonderful remedy, and so pleasant." 25c. 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons, prescription druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

DON'T RECOGNIZE DEFEAT.

Prove Your Manhood by Battling on Bravely After Reverses.

After 12,000 of Napoleon's soldiers had been overwhelmed by the advance of 75,000 Austrian troops he addressed them thus: "I am displeased with you. You have evinced neither discipline nor valor. You have allowed yourselves to be driven from positions where a handful of resolute men might have arrested an army. You are no longer French soldiers. Chief of staff, cause it to be written on their standards, 'They are no longer of the army of Italy.'"

In tears the battered veterans replied: "We have been misrepresented. The soldiers of the enemy were three to one. Try us once more. Place us in the post of danger and see if we do not belong to the army of Italy." In the next battle they were placed in the van, and they made good their pledge by rolling back the great Austrian army.

He is a pretty poor sort of man who loses courage and fears to face the world just because he has made a mistake or a slip somewhere, because his business has failed, because his property has been swept away by some general disaster or because of other trouble impossible for him to avert.

This is the test of your manhood. How much is there left in you after you have lost everything outside of yourself? If you lie down now, throw up your hands and acknowledge yourself worsted there is not much in you. But if, with heart undaunted and face turned forward you refuse to give up or to lose faith in yourself, if you scorn to beat a retreat, you will show that the man left in you is bigger than your loss, greater than your cross and larger than any defeat.

"I know no such unquestionable badge and ensign of a sovereign mind," said Emerson, "as that faculty of purpose which, through all changes of companions or parties or fortunes, changes never, bates no jot of heart or hope, but wears out opposition and arrives at its port."

It is men like Ulysses S. Grant, who, whether in the conflict of opposing armies on the battlefield or in the wear and tear of civil strife, fighting against reverses, battling for a competence for his loved ones, even while the hand of death lay chill upon him, "bates no jot of heart or hope," that bring victory from the most forbidding circumstances. It is men like Napoleon, who refuse to recognize defeat, who declare that "impossible" is not in their vocabularies, that accomplish things—Success.

Afraid of Strong Medicines.

Many people suffer for years from rheumatic pains, and prefer to do so rather than take the strong medicines usually given for rheumatism, not knowing that quick relief from pain may be had simply by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm and without taking any medicine internally. Rev. Amos Barker of Magnolia, North Carolina, suffered for eight years with a lame hip, due to severe rheumatic pains. He has been permanently cured by the free application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by Shoults & Co.

The Board of Supervisors of Sonoma county meet Monday, February 14th.

Itch—Ringworm.

E. T. Lucas, Wingo, Ky., writes, April 25th, 1902: "For 10 to 12 years I had been afflicted with a malady known as the 'itch.' The itching was most unbearable; I had tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies I could hear of besides a number of doctors. I wish to state that one single application of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me of this trouble permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two separate occasions for ringworm, and it cured completely. 25c. 50c and $1.00 bottle. Sold by L. S. Simmons, prescription druggist, Sonoma, Cal."

Health.

Means the ability to do a good day's work without undue fatigue, and to find life worth living. You cannot have indigestion or constipation without its upsetting the liver and polluting the blood. Such a condition may be quickly and best and quickest obtained by taking the best liver regulator that the world has ever known. Mrs. D. W. Smith writes, April 1, 1902: "I use Herbine, and find it the best medicine for constipation and regulating the liver I ever used." Price 50 cents. Sold by L. S. Simmons, prescription druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

The franchise for the Schlocken-Weber electric railway will come up for final disposition by the Supervisors on February 14th.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Mother's Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of small children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug it may be given as confidently as honey to an adult. For sale by Shoults & Co.

It will pay you to keep Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in your home. It only costs a quarter. For sale by Shoults & Co.

The Winter Route East.

When you think of going East, think of the Texas & Pacific, the true Southern Route, as it is called.

We can plan for you an ideal winter trip through the true Sonoma Valley or down the picturesque San Joaquin Valley or through the beautiful Orange and Olive groves of Southern California, getting a glimpse of the Old World civilization of Old Mexico en route and on through the cotton fields to the Gulf of Mexico.
